

Consider making the switch to the University of Freiburg: It is one of the most renowned and strongest research universities in Germany, with a history spanning more than 500 years. You'll engage in top-notch research and teaching with a unique spectrum of disciplines, perspectives, and people – right in the heart of one of Germany's most beautiful cities.

The University of Freiburg's human resources policy is oriented toward the principles of equal opportunity and diversity. The university is committed to the goal of creating a family-friendly university.

The Faculty of Economics and Behavioral Sciences of the University of Freiburg invites applications for a

Professorship (W3) for Neurosciences in Human Movement Studies in the Department of Sport Science and Physical Education to be filled as soon as possible. This professorship is also particularly suitable for highly qualified early career researchers.

The Professor will concentrate on neurophysiological aspects of human motor control and learning.

A sports-related expertise in human movement science is expected. In addition, the candidate needs to demonstrate a profound expertise in human-neurophysiology.

The focus should be on fundamental research in order to establish new connections to the existing activities in the neurosciences at the University of Freiburg. Collaboration with centres and activities in Freiburg is desirable, e.g. with the Bernstein Center for Computational Neuroscience or with the excellence cluster BrainLinks-BrainTools.

The Professor will teach courses in Human Movement Science in Bachelor and Masters Programmes in Sport Science.

Required qualifications for successful employment as a professor are a university degree, pedagogic aptitude and an outstanding dissertation. Substantial achievements and experience in academic research and teaching, at the level of a Habilitation according to the German academic system, are expected.

We are particularly pleased to receive applications from women for the position advertised here.

The following application documents are to be submitted:

- Curriculum vitae
- Certificates of degrees and academic qualifications
- Complete list of papers and invited lectures specifying the 5 most important publications in the previous 5 years
- List of third-party funds received in the previous 5 years
- Outline of planned research activities for the next 5 years
